

Solar Tax Rebate Disclaimer

1. GateCrafters.com and Web Direct Brands Inc. assembles this information provided by the United States government and our suppliers and manufacturers for the sole purpose of convenience. All information contained here within is subject to rules of the Internal Revenue Code and must be interpreted by a qualified tax professional. Simply put; we are making no representations our own and are simply communicating representations of manufacturers and our unqualified opinion of the related tax laws.
2. All representation as to certification of products qualified for this rebate program are made by the manufacturers and are subject to the certifications from the manufacturers that are present on their website, on the date of purchase. Each manufacturer is responsible for their own certification, and each customer is responsible for verifying manufacturer certification and retaining proof of certification at the time of purchase.
3. Each customer will hold GateCrafters.com and Web Direct Brands Inc. harmless in regards to all claims and representations made on this website. Each customer will obtain a verification and opinion as to the validity of products qualification of this rebate program independent from statements made on this website. Additionally each customer will independently verify their own qualifications and their properties qualifications in regards to this rebate program.
4. Representations made by professional door dealer on their website <http://www.professionaldoordealer.com> are the sole responsibility of professional door dealer. Their statement published on 08/13/2009 "it is important to know that the tax credit applies to the cost of the solar panel itself, the gate operator, the access control device, the safety device and the installation cost of the solar gate operator system", is the sole responsibility of professional door dealer.
5. In respect to additional labor and parts required: the rebate shall not apply to any additional cost of the gate itself as well as any work required to place a gate in proper working order such as leveling the gate replacing the hinges removing wheels or any other work that is not specifically included in the code. It is important to have your tax professional read and understand IRS's rules for this tax rebate prior to purchases made on this site.